

atelier in a kit

What is the Reggio Emilia approach and how can I begin to practise in this way?

My name is Angela Mee Lee, creator of 'atelier in a kit' and I have been an international teacher for over 20 years and practiced as a music therapist for 6 years.

In my quest to find a deeper meaning within my own teaching practice, I discovered the Reggio Emilia approach in 2010. It immediately resonated with my own beliefs and philosophy.

Over the past 10 years, creating meaningful beautiful environments has become a great passion of mine as well as embedding the values of Reggio into my practice.

I want to share with you a path, for how to incorporate the values and principles of the Reggio Emilia approach into your own daily practice by using the framework of 'atelier in a kit'

Once you take this first step, you will begin experiencing success in being empowered to lead and create meaningful learning spaces as well as a clear path of how to begin adding inspirations of Reggio Emilia into your own practice.

Reflections of workshop

'I needed clarity and a deeper view of Reggio Emilia's values. Now I know how to start and take forward these value-based learnings. I feel that as teachers we should use our hundred languages to understand and guide our children towards strengthening their personalities and being meaningful to the world.'

M. Garg

'I used to think that spaces, resources and ideas needed to be "set" and ready from the get-go and that uncertainty and discomfort were bad things. Now I know that it's part of the process, part of taking risks and trying new things, and that change is inevitable when the child is at the centre of their learning.'
